New EOSC SOA Partner!

We warmly welcome the Interdisciplinary Transformation University Austria
to the EOSC SOA community!

We look forward to fresh impulses and collaboration in Austrian digital infrastructure and services.

Website Update

Over the past weeks, we've been working on giving our website a facelift, most notably on the Events page. The updated layout now comes with a cleaner design and more intuitive navigation.

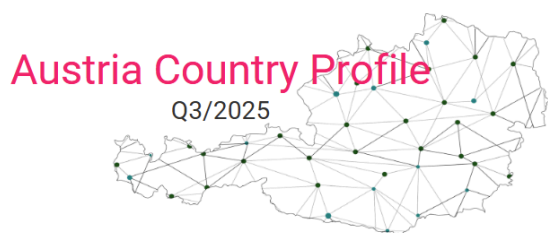

Our goal was to make your browsing experience simpler, faster, and more enjoyable.

Four New Publications

These short formats offer you compact insights into relevant topics related to Open Science and EOSC.

Don't miss the latest edition of the EOSC SOA Project Reports series, which highlights Austrian contributions to EOSC. This edition focuses on the Skills4EOSC project and contributions by the Natural History Museum Vienna and TU Vienna. The report is available via the EOSC Austria Zenodo Community.

Please read the latest developments related to EOSC in Austria. Check out the recently published Austrian Country Profile.

Two new Knowledge Snacks have also been published:

EOSC SOA at the Open Science Festival

On 8-9 September 2025, the Open Science Festival was held at the University of Vienna, bringing together guests from research, academia and science support to discuss current topics. There were keynote speeches, workshops, poster sessions and lightning talks on Open Science & citizen science, AI-ready research data and political design strategies, plus lively discussions, including the challenges and 'dark side' of Open Science. Illustrator Lana Lauren drew synchronous graphics of key content from selected sessions. EOSC SOA was represented with a poster and a pitch.

OSCA Event Recap

OSCA is Austria's gateway to DiSSCo, and this event marks a strategic milestone in integrating national collections into a federated European system.

On 11-12 September 2025, the OSCA (Open Scientific Collections Austria) consortium met at the Natural History Museum Vienna to chart the digital future of Austria's natural science collections. Under the theme "From Institutional Commitment toward National and European Infrastructures", Day 1 featured keynote talks and panels on how institutions can engage and align with infrastructures like DiSSCo. On Day 2, participants dove into a hands-on workshop to practice working with OpenRefine.

3rd FAIR Digital Objects Conference

TU Wien
25. – 27. March 2026

This event will explore developments in FAIR Digital Objects and their role in creating a global, trustworthy data landscape. Expect lively discussions, interactive tutorials, and the opportunity to contribute through papers, posters, or lightning talks. Submissions are now open for insights into practical implementations, strategic visions, and interoperability successes. Be part of shaping the next era of data-driven science and innovation!
